

COMPOSITIONAL GAME THEORY

NEIL GHANI

Category theory is important to me as it provides a theory of structure and structure is my mechanism of choice to look at the world. This talk shows how this programme can be applied to Economic Game Theory as invented by John Nash to produce a compositional treatment of game theory. The categorical approach not only uncovers new ideas and concepts, but is also vital in taming the complexity of ensuing calculations.

UNIVERSITY OF STRATHCLYDE